

HERE'S WHY YOU WON'T WANT TO MISS YOUR NEXT EMPLOYEE BENEFITS BRIEFING

If you want to better understand your Federal employee benefits program and learn to use your benefits more effectively to help you and your family, you should attend one of these valuable programs. During the session, you'll learn:

The requirements to receive a retirement benefit
How retirement benefit amounts are determined
When and why benefits may be reduced
How to get credit for military service and re-deposits
The cost for providing survivors with benefits

How the amount of FEGLI coverage is determined
About the optional benefit coverages available
The costs for various coverage options
What happens to life insurance at retirement
What are choices to continue coverage at retirement

How the Thrift Savings Plan can help you to save
Why there is still time to catch-up for retirement
How to choose the right mix of investment options
How to get money out of the plan while still working
About the opportunities with the new Roth TSP feature

How Flexible Spending Accounts challenge employees
About the potential of High Deductible Plans and HSAs
The benefits available under the FEDVIP plan
How health benefits are continued for those leaving service
The fundamentals of Medicare, including when to enroll

How do you qualify for Social Security benefits
What family member are eligible for benefits
How are benefits calculated
When the Windfall Elimination Provision affects you
Will you be affected by the Government Pension Offset

About the options for receiving help during a disability
The differences in the definitions of disability
How Workers' Compensation claims are made
How a pension disability benefit is calculated
The requirements for obtaining Social Security disability

How expensive the costs of long-term care can be
What is covered by FLTCIP, and what is not
The costs for various long-term care benefits

What causes benefits to be paid
About alternative coverage for those not eligible

The sessions will be presented by an engaging, professional speaker with years of experience working with Federal employees and Federal benefits programs. The presentation includes many graphical elements, not seen in typical sessions, which help to explain difficult concepts in a manner that's easy to understand - and it includes time for your questions.

You'll receive a high-quality workbook with all of the information that's presented during the session that will become a valuable reference source to you. The workbook includes a benefits worksheet that can be used to gather all of your benefits information into one, convenient location. For questions about these briefings, please contact: To register, please contact:

LOCATION:

PROGRAMS:

